Vivos xPoint

The Point in Time When Only the Prepared Will Survive.

Located in the middle of nowhere, South Dakota, Vivos xPoint is a former underground U.S. Army base consisting of 575 concrete and steel bunkers. From a distance, the outside of this survivalist community looks like a few thousand red ants laid mounds in a field. But the inside? A self-sustaining luxury suite for you and your family. Each suite is designed by the owner and includes over 2,200 square feet of floor space for up to 24 people. We should note this does not include the 400 feet of space between each bunker. So when you and the misses begin wrangling each other's necks after months in isolation, no one will hear a peep. How great is that?

Cost: $35,000-$260,000

Rising S Bunkers

*We Don't Sell Fear.
We Sell Preparedness.*

Looking for a bunker but don't have the skills to build or desire to travel? Check out Rising S Bunkers, where their bunker and bomb shelters come equipped with a state-of-the-art NBC air filtration system. The company welds a wide-array of bunkers for your current home and property, including an $8.3 million package called The Aristocrat. This ultimate-luxury model features a fully-equipped gym, hot sauna, swimming pool, hot tub, game room, bowling alley, and theater seats. Now you can watch your favorite Academy Award-winning movies and bowl a perfect 300, all while the world burns to the ground.

Cost: $39,500-$8,350,000

Atlas Shelters

Need a Bomb Shelter or a Safe Room?

If you have ever wanted a survival shelter installed right under your kitchen floors, Atlas Shelters is the perfect company for you. They don't feature all the amenities of some other bunkers but can be strategically built with an extra-hidden room you forget to tell your mother-in-law about. One of their biggest sellers right now is the Atlas SAFE-CELLAR, featuring a safe room, wine cellar, gun room, and NBC air filtration system. It's the perfect mix of safety, secrecy, and escapism from your mother-in-law's daily online sessions with her personal astrologist.

The Oppidum

The Largest Billionaire Bunker in the World.

This Cold War ex-secret facility of the Soviets is the creme de la creme of bunkers. The massive estate has an above-ground ultra-mansion with tennis courts, golf course, and helipad - all protected by a high-security system. Below is a 77,500 sq. ft. luxurious underground bunker with its very own medical and surgical rooms, water purification system, and all the leisure facilities you'd expect. Even better, the company claims The Oppidum can accommodate its residents for up to ten years, providing you a more permanent solution for your post-quarantine lives.

Cost: Unknown (but more than you make)
